A day you will never forget

A Mastery Approach for Phonics

We are truly excited that Michelle will be flying into our region with her magical Book Wings to deliver training on StoryTime Phonics, a systematic, synthetic multisensory approach which contextualises phonics through inspiring a LOVE of real books, whilst being based on the very familiar Letters and Sounds document.

For those who don't know Michelle, she has spent a life time developing StoryTime Phonics as a primary school teacher, Local authority consultant and PGCE tutor at the Faculty of Education, Cambridge University. StoryTime Phonics programme is built upon research by Wyse and Goswami also Torgerson (Universities of York and Sheffield) also the incredible Dr Fiona Maine (educational lecturer from Cambridge University) wrote the accompanying 'Talking Bookmarks' to support children's language comprehension skills. StoryTime Phonics has won many prestigious awards including the BETT and ERA and is highly recommended by school improvement services across the UK.

During the training day, Michelle will share her years of teaching and training experience highlighting key techniques through the use of online videos and practical support.

Michelle will also share her top tips on how to precision teach vulnerable groups of children through the use of multisensory experiences and how to hook reluctant readers into books for pleasure!

Michelle is widely known for her hilarious sense of humour, knowledge, passion and energy! She fairy promises to ignite a passion for teaching children to read in fun memorable ways, which in turn, will encourage them to be life long lovers of books. Please spend a few minutes checking out this link to see StoryTime Phonics in action, www.ttstorytimephonics.co.uk/information Hear from incredible authors who are in full support of StoryTime Phonics programme i.e. Nick Sharratt, also to see a year 1 Caveman Dave phonics lessons in action.
